Writer's Club Program

New semester starts March 1, 2010 (to end of May, 2010). Sign up for any of the following classes:

Movies in Review:

A good introduction to the Writer's Club Program for newcomers, this class gives students a chance to talk about storytelling without writing. Watch movies in class and discuss as a group.

Poetry:

Summon your inner creativity and compose some poetry. We will look at published poems and discuss, as well as composing our own verse. Seasoned poets and beginners are both welcome.

Journal Writing:

Do you keep thinking you should keep a journal? Together we will be writing down our lives and thoughts, and sharing the parts we want to with the group. Also an opportunity to begin your memoirs.

Introduction to Computers:

Not sure how to turn one on? Wanting to get more proficient at using various software packages and the internet? All are welcome, and no writing is required in this course.

Journalism:

This class is all about the facts. All levels of skill and experience are accommodated. We will learn journalistic writing practices and put them to use in the production of an in-house newsletter.

Writers' Sharing Circle:

This class is appropriate for writers who are motivated to work on their own project or poetry, and wish to have structured time to write. When we put our pens down, we often share our work and exchange feedback.

Fiction Writing:

Have you ever thought there was a story struggling to get out of you? In this class we read established short story writers to learn the writer's tools and also try our own hand at writing fiction.

Creative Writing:

Writers and poets of any stripe are welcome to attend this class, which uses prompts to kick-start the creative process. Any kind of writing is possible, at any level in this class.
